OUR APPROACH

AT-RISK applies assessment, analysis, planning and management to each engagement. This holistic approach produces a comprehensive, ongoing protection strategy, whether the potential threats affect people, facilities, operations or intellectual property.

Every project starts with assessment and oversight by senior AT-RISK executives, who evaluate clients' needs from a multi-disciplinary perspective. Then, they identify areas of concern and develop solutions to manage those risks.

Unusual activity prompts swift investigation. These inquiries are backed by skilled analysts and behavioral experts, who use electronic and real-world tactics to identify, monitor and analyze potentially threatening behavior by individuals or organizations.

When investigation reveals a viable threat, experienced security personnel develop strategies for threat management and provide physical protection, as needed.

Even a straightforward project, such as investigating possible employee theft, benefits from this holistic approach. For example, AT-RISK can verify the existence and scope of the theft, as well as provide strategies to detect early warning signs and to help prevent similar incidents.

“As we expanded our global operations, we needed in-depth due diligence about potential partners, as well as their countries, to understand everything from risks and red flags to cultural differences that could affect our operations. AT-RISK was like having our own sophisticated intelligence operation.” —Vice President of Human Resources, Fortune 500 Company
