INVESTIGATION AND PROTECTION SERVICES

SERVING LEGAL CLIENTS WORLDWIDE

INTERNAL INVESTIGATIONS. THREAT ASSESSMENTS. Personal Protection. Witness protection. Workplace violence. Family safety. Clients can call upon your law firm for a variety of investigative and protection services.

If your client is facing a brand authentication issue, embezzlement problem or hostile termination, we can help. Our investigators have more than 100 years of combined experience assisting law firms and corporations in IT and personal investigations, forensics, espionage and many other areas.

Unlike most firms, our background includes legal, military, law enforcement and corporate expertise. The result: We can help your clients manage, assess and mitigate a wide range of threats, and also provide personal protection virtually anywhere in the world.

SERVICES

Personal, Executive and Witness Protection

Personal protection is not as simple as hiring bodyguards. In many instances, a transparent safety program that involves lifestyle adjustments can be more effective and less intrusive than security personnel. AT-RISK can help protect high-profile individuals, corporate executives, litigants in highly publicized cases, witnesses and their families. We can also perform IRS 132 audits as an unbiased third party to help your clients reap significant tax benefits from their executive protection and corporate aircraft ownership programs. Services include:

- > Witness/expert protection
- > Attorney protection
- > Executive protection
- > Family safety
- > Risk assessments and evaluations

Investigations

Hiring, managing and terminating employees can sometimes lead to potential risks for your clients that call for discreet, thorough investigations and assessments. Investigations can include:

- > Gathering background information on a subject
- > Pre- and post-termination surveillance
- > Interviews of colleagues, victims and witnesses to determine potentially risky behavior

Threat Assessment and Management

Our proactive threat assessment and management strategies can help identify risks of all types. Using surveillance, intelligence collection, interviews and other techniques, we can determine the validity and seriousness of potential threats and help mitigate risks before an incident occurs.

The AT-RISK threat assessment team uses a multidisciplinary approach that includes skilled investigators and operational psychologists to evaluate and manage risks.

Surveillance

AT-RISK goes well beyond the usual law enforcement technique of positioning an observer in a vehicle. Our surveillance teams have extensive experience in sub rosa investigations and have installed thousands of hidden cameras and other covert surveillance devices, uncovering everything from thefts and embezzlement to counterfeiting and workers' compensation fraud. By reducing the risk of discovery, our surveillance tactics are more successful and help prevent the escalation of potentially volatile situations. Services include:

- > Covert surveillance installations
- > International surveillance operations
- > Vehicle tracking

Workplace Violence

A company workplace violence policy can increase your clients' liability if done improperly. AT-RISK can help your clients identify potential vulnerabilities and liabilities and help them design and implement successful safety programs. AT-RISK's planning and preparation includes:

- > Assessment of the corporate culture
- > Creation of written policies
- > Creation of threat assessment teams
- > Design of actionable procedures that support the corporate policy
- > Training employees and managers to spot potential problems
- > Investigative/protective intervention

EXAMPLES

AT-RISK In Action

Threats to your clients and their operations can come from anywhere in the world. Here is how AT-RISK can help mitigate that risk.

- > While evaluating an existing executive protection program for an international corporation, we uncovered embezzlement and conspiracy between two senior team members that had already cost the company more than US$100k. The team members were arrested, and we revamped the company's protection programs to prevent future incidents.
- > A former employee had a delusional interest in a family member of one of the senior executives; her behavior included stalking and harassment. We protected the family and managed the threat for four years, helping authorities repeatedly arrest the individual and commit her to a state hospital until the risk dissipated.
