

AT-RISK INTERNATIONAL

LATIN AMERICA

PROTECT ASSETS AND SAVE MONEY WITH STRATEGIC SECURITY

LIVING, WORKING AND TRAVELING IN LATIN AMERICA CAN BE PERILOUS FOR NATIVES and foreigners alike. From kidnapping for ransom and extortion to street crime and corruption, the dangers are many, and trusted partners are few.

AT-RISK supports organizations throughout Latin America with local personnel who know the language, customs and politics of the region. Supported by our Global Security Operations Center (GSOC) and an extensive network of proven partners, we help enterprises and individuals reduce risk through proactive threat assessment and protective intelligence. This approach anticipates, identifies and mitigates dangers, eliminating costly surprises. Clients typically save money on security, while decreasing the vulnerability of their personnel and operations.

Having partnered with corporate, military and government organizations on hundreds of operations, AT-RISK offers a trusted resource for strategic security services.

SERVICES

Protective Intelligence

Through our GSOC and an extensive local network, AT-RISK supports regional personnel and clients with timely information to mitigate risks before they emerge as crises. We also help organizations design protective intelligence programs that combine open-source information and social media to monitor areas, events and individuals of concern.

Contingency Planning

We help organizations develop and disseminate procedures for crisis response, ranging from earthquakes and fires to facility attacks and kidnappings. Services include general preparedness through employee education and training, as well as emergency evacuation and extraction, in conjunction with our extensive regional network.

Personal Protection Specialists

While most protection details in Latin America rely on high-profile security, advance planning and intelligence collection allow AT-RISK clients greater comfort and freedom on the road and at home. We support travelers with seasoned security drivers and Personal Protection Specialists, and we offer residential protection that layers security for efficient and cost-effective use of resources. All protection services receive real-time intelligence from our GSOC, 24/7.

Embedded Personnel

Embedded personnel supplement in-house security teams with specialized skills and local knowledge. These individuals operate seamlessly in the client organization, carrying company credentials and providing as-needed support. Available both full-time and part-time, embedded personnel offer senior-level expertise, without the financial burden of recruitment and training.

Biosecurity and Biosafety Consulting

AT-RISK combines PhD-level scientists and security experts to help commercial and academic labs design and implement a comprehensive biosecurity and biosafety program. These efforts not only address physical vulnerabilities, but also operational issues, such as under-trained personnel.

Investigations

Cultural and political differences in Latin America can present unique investigative challenges. Local analysts and trusted contacts enable AT-RISK to provide background checks and due diligence investigation on prospective employees and business partners. We also conduct reliable, discreet inquiries into retail shrinkage and other inside threats.

Special Events

With diverse experience that includes multiple Olympics, the World Cup, economic summits and political campaigns, AT-RISK helps organizers and hospitality companies assess risks and develop security strategies. We partner with local resources, private contractors and client staff from initial planning through the end of the event.

Custom Training

Highly skilled instructors—all active field personnel—can train security teams on threat assessments, executive protection and protective intelligence. We also offer programs on cultural and situational awareness, including education on hostage survival, for international travelers, expatriates and non-security employees.

EXAMPLES

AT-RISK In Action

- > An international manufacturer and distributor organized a trip to Mexico for top sales performers. Some destinations required travel on roads targeted by gang and cartel activities. AT-RISK provided intelligence and advance work—including crisis planning—for all routes to and from airports, and to lodging and events. Our teams also provided on-site and transportation security for special events. In the end, the group of nearly 1,000 individuals enjoyed the event, visiting remote and exotic locations without incident.
- > The CEO and other senior executives of an $18 billion U.S. corporation explored relationship opportunities with manufacturers and other potential partners in Latin America. Our teams provided consultation, advance planning, crisis preparation and close protection on a tour that spanned multiple cities and countries throughout the region. Activities included providing protection for the CEO during daily jogs, as well as for diplomatic-level meetings and dinners. Advance agents leapfrogged from country to country, providing logistics support for the protection detail, while our GSOC provided ongoing intelligence.

ABOUT AT-RISK

Global Security Expertise

Founded by experts with law enforcement, military and intelligence backgrounds, AT-RISK International, LLC provides security training, protection, threat analysis, consulting and investigations worldwide. Established on the philosophy of proactive security, AT-RISK specializes in assessment and protection based on advance research, analysis and preparation that helps to prevent security issues before they occur.

Highly respected worldwide, AT-RISK helps protect high-profile individuals and organizations in the Americas, the Middle East, Europe, Asia and Africa.

